Dominic Johnson stands as a seasoned consultant, coach, facilitator, leader, and author, leveraging over 30 years of international experience to deliver results-oriented solutions to his clients. His extensive expertise spans various industry sectors, including Professional Services, Financial Services, Telecommunications, Government, Healthcare, Media, and IT.

Interestingly, Dominic's professional journey commenced in a rather unconventional setting as a celibate Hindu monk, where he provided executive leadership for Europe's largest Hindu temple. Transitioning into consulting, he spent eight years at Franklin Covey, where he delivered highly acclaimed programs such as the 7 Habits of Highly Effective People, while also spearheading the consulting practice across EMEA.

In 2005, Dominic relocated to Australia and joined a large professional services firm as a Senior Manager in their Partner Development function. Here, he provided coaching and leadership development services to Partners nationwide, focusing on enhancing their business development efforts. Notably, Dominic played a pivotal role in designing and delivering the flagship program, Executive Engagements, based on Mahan Khalsa's renowned book Let's Get Real or Let's Not Play.

Since 2010, Dominic has honed his specialisation in empowering technically oriented professionals to elevate their strategic thinking, commercial acumen, stakeholder engagement, emotional intelligence, and influence. Through his tailored approach and wealth of experience, Dominic continues to guide individuals and organisations towards achieving their full potential in an ever-evolving business landscape.
